Little Jack De Saulles and his aunt, Senorita Errazuriz.

Little Jack De Saulles, the son of Blanca De Saulles, who is now on trial in New York for the murder of her husband, does not know that he was the innocent cause of the tragedy. The accused's defense is "mother love." Jack is not allowed at the trial. This picture of Jack with his aunt, who came all the way from Chile to attend the trial, was taken after the lad had visited his mother.

Of the boys, those between the ages of 13 and 15 years were the most numerous offenders. Seven of these were sent to the industrial school. Of the other offenders, 11 were for malicious mischief, 16 for petit larceny, 13 for discharging firearms in the city and 3 for housebreaking. Eleven were dismissed with a warning and good advice from Judge Homer, 23 were placed on probation and 5 were given suspended sentences.

It was William's first trip to Colorado. Everyone was marveling at the wonderful scenery but the little chap, who seemed troubled at it all. "What's the matter, don't you like the mountains?" asked his mother. "Oh, yes," replied the boy, "but on my map Colorado is red."

You Can Only Judge A Tree By The Fruit It Bears

That our patients are pleased and are helping the cause of "fair priced dentistry" by their patronage and efforts in boosting for us, is evidenced by the following expressions:

Mrs. W. H. Holmes, Farmington, Utah, (Silver filling)—"Never had a tooth filled before in so short a time and with such ease."

Mr. H. J. Packham, 2021 Washington—"My dentist made me a price of $60 for my work, and your price at $40 saves me one-half. Doctor, you are a real benefactor."

Mrs. M. Campion, Brigham City, (Full set of teeth)—"They fit me perfectly, no trouble whatever. I will send my friends."

BRITISH MAKE HELL FOR HUNS

Berlin Post Describes Enemy Bombardments, Smoke Screen, Gas and Tanks.

"IN THE FLANDERS HELL"

History of World Has Never Seen Such Blood-curdling, Hellish Pandemonium.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—A German description of a British bombardment, smoke screen attacks with gas, flame-throwers and tanks followed by a charge of Canadians and Scots published by the Berlin Post is entitled "In the Flanders Hell."

"For weeks, day and night," says the writer, "the British kept our position under fire. Every fiercer burst of the fire grew hotter. Our artillery replied powerfully. The army communiqué spoke of a concentration of enemy artillery fire on individual sectors. Even we cannot describe what that means. The history of the world has never seen anything more awful. All calibers were brought into action, and a crater of unprecedented extent opened beside the others, was excavated afresh, swallowed up the old ones, spread out beyond the lime trees and threw up the hinterland. Nothing remained intact of all, that nights of hard labor under the enemy's fire, had created."

Smoke Shells Veil Troops.

"The destroying fire did its work with depressing thoroughness, seeming to extinguish all life, and now came the turn of the smoke shells. Thick smoke lay before our eyes, so that we could see nothing, and yet ever forward must we push our death-defying posts. A real fog of mere smoke compared with the artificial fog which the British send out in order to veil their dispositions."

"When this appeared inadequate the enemy employed gas, and the evil mists came rolling towards our lines and passed over them; only our gas-masks prevented every living thing from being destroyed. The gas had a singular effect on our weapons; all iron was covered with thick rust."

Terrifying Drum Fire.

"The English now judged that they had done enough preparatory work, for suddenly drumfire started with the most terrifying effect. Shells of the heaviest caliber thundered across, with mines, machine gun volleys, and hand grenades all uniting in a blood-curdling, hellish pandemonium such as even a Dante would never be able to describe."

"German nerves held out with the utmost resolution, constantly awaiting the moment when the hurricane of fire would break loose. And the storm came. In the neighboring sector flame-throwers were turned against this murderous engine no measures avail. There is nothing for it but to get back into the rearward positions."

"And then the enemy was on us. Tank after tank loomed forward. These monsters appeared invincible, and one of them was hit by a heavy shell of gas and machine guns inside were kept going unrelentingly, until finally their iron hail reached our lines. And behind the tanks came Scots and Canadians. We see nothing but endless rows of enemies."

"At least our reserves deliver a counter-attack. Murder breaks out afresh. The field of dead become once more a battleground."

READY NOW AT OLD PRICES.

Fresh lots (just received) of Foley's Honey and Tar are selling at before-the-war prices. This puts a well-known cough medicine, ready to use, in homes at less than it costs to buy and mix the ingredients yourself, and saves bother and fuss. Mrs. Mary Kibby, 3533 Princeton Ave., Spokane, Wash., writes: "I was sick in bed with fatigue. I coughed very badly. I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped my cough and I got better. So now I am around the house again." A. R. McIntyre Drug Co.—Advertisement.

VIGILANTES WAR NOTES.

The Alliance of Labor and Democracy, the patriotic labor organization, issues this in its service to workingmen's papers:

After German commerce raiders had sunk nine merchant ships and two British destroyers in the North sea on October 17, the raiders turned their guns on survivors in lifeboats.

Prof. Scott Nearing, chief of the pacifist People's council, will now explain why the civilized world ought to make peace at once with the boss of these raiders.

Max Nordau was for many years a Paris correspondent of the Hamburger Nachrichten. He was as much at home in Germany as in France and knew the psychology of the Germans as well as his own. There is probably not a better authority upon the feelings of the German people outside of Germany than the celebrated author of "Degeneracy." Here is a quotation by the Alliance of Labor and Democracy from a recent statement of Nordau on the subject of German revolt:

"Food riots there may be and will be in Germany, but a revolution is out of the question."

"The German people still believe the monstrous lies invented by the government. The soul of Germany has been methodically perverted, demoralized, debauched by official teachings and propaganda."

"The German people rejoice in their slavery; they are proud of it because their masters have been astute enough to wrap it up with attractive names."

"Livity is called 'uniform,' servitude called 'organization,' actual degradation of the German race is called 'discipline,' and the renunciation of all rights and dignity and personality is called 'heroic abnegation.'"

FOOD SITUATION GROWS ACUTE

Norway Suffering From Scarcity and High Prices.

CHRISTIANIA, Nov. 27.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The food situation in Norway has grown worse, especially since the American embargo was imposed. So long as the commercial relations could be maintained between Norway and the United States, the import of food was about big enough to meet the consumers' demand. Except for the steadily increasing prices of all articles of food, everything could be bought as before, the only form of rationing being sugar which could only be bought from government stores two pounds at a time.

As a matter of fact, the government and especially the food minister had been too optimistic. When cablegrams from Washington stated that the American government was going to place an embargo on different articles the answer from the Norwegian government to the press, asking how this would affect Norway, was that it only meant that Norway should guarantee that nothing would be re-exported to Germany, and then Norway would get all it needed.

At least, during the last two months it has dawned on the government that Uncle Sam means business and that Norway cannot expect special favors as a favorite friend.

After the importation of grain and flour stopped the government established a grain monopoly taking charge of all grain imported and produced here. The farmers are not allowed to sell their crops to anyone but the government and at a fixed price. The nation will be put on flour or bread rationing, every person, adult or child, being allowed 25 pounds of bread monthly, or 16 pounds of unsifted flour. The people, however, are instructed to mix potatoes in the bread dough. With this year's crop and the imported grain in storage, Norway has enough flour till February or March. It is hoped here that the United States will grant export licenses for some of the grain bought there by Norwegian importers and the Norwegian government which now is ready for shipment.

Norway is dependent on imported sugar as no sugar is produced here. The consumption of sugar is still unlimited. Candy factories turn out as much candy as before, and no sugar card is in use here, as in Sweden.

Last summer an ordinance was passed putting motor vehicles and motor craft on rations of gasoline. The result was that automobiles were used more freely than ever. The American embargo again forced the authorities to action and the sale of gasoline for use in private cars was entirely stopped beginning October 1. Taxicabs were only permitted to operate from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. and the streets in the city are now as quiet and free from noise as they were twenty years ago.

The supply of kerosene is becoming very low with no prospect of replacement. For fishers this is disastrous, as all along the coast they are using kerosene-driven motor boats. The country population and the poor people in the cities using kerosene for light and cooking are hard hit, as every family is only allowed two gallons a month.

The scarcity of fat is felt more and more every day. The majority of the population have been using margarine instead of butter, but now that the raw stuff for this product is not allowed to be exported from the United States, the margarine production is reduced every week. Grocers have been forced to put their customers on allowances, nobody receiving more than a pound at once. Norway is facing a fat shortage and the nation will have to be rationed.

As for fuel, the people are put on rations, except those who can take care of themselves and afford to pay the prices for coal and coke imported from Great Britain.

Everyone asks, "Why does not the government entirely stop exports of thereby more favorable conditions can be established with the allies?" But no official answer is given.

DELAYS ARE BAD.

Percy, being down to recite at the temperance concert, stood up to do or die. He got along all right until he reached the words, "He stood beside the bier!" Then his memory failed him.

W. R. Davis, stood beside the bier," he repeated, trembling.

The evil spirits on the back bench murmured one to another.

"He stood beside the bier!" groaned Percy, and drew a moist hand across his dripping forehead.

"Go on," said the ladies in the rear. "It'll get flat while you're waiting!"—N. Y. American.

MEMORIAL OF ELKS WILL BE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

One of the few opportunities of the year when the general public may participate in the exercises of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will occur Sunday afternoon, when the members of Ogden lodge, No. 719, B. P. O. E., as well as lodges of the order throughout the nation, hold their annual memorial services.

In this city the exercises will be held in the lodge room of the Grant avenue home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Every Elk in the city is expected to invite members of his family and friends to attend the services.

The Elks' memorial service is largely a matter of ritual, but the lodges are permitted to invite speakers from outside of the organization if it is so desired and also to provide appropriate music. The memorial address for Ogden lodge this year will be delivered by Henry C. Johnson, superintendent of the Ogden public schools. The Rev. John W. Hyslop, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopal, and a member of the order, will deliver the eulogy.

Six members of Ogden lodge have departed this life during the present lodge year and the services will be held in special tribute to their memory, although it is also the annual tribute to the memory of every member of the organization whose name appears on the memorial tablet. Those who have died within the lodge year are C. H. A. Gerding, George Gray, Ralph E. Hoag, Thomas W. Jones, A. J. Marshall and E. F. Misch.

The program for the Sunday afternoon services: Organ prelude, Sam F. Whitaker; opening address and ceremonial responses, officers of the lodge; invocation, L. J. Healy, chaplain; solo, "He Giveth His Beloved Sleep," Leslie H. Saville; calling of the roll, Exalted Ruler W. C. Camp and Secretary W. T.
